IMPORTANT DISCLOSURES

Broadstone Real Estate Access Fund (BDREX) shares will not be listed on an exchange and it is not anticipated that a secondary market will develop. The Fund is a new company and has no operating history. An investment is not suitable for investors that require liquidity, other than through the Fund's repurchase policy. Redemptions within 90 days of purchase may be subject to a fee. There is no guarantee that an investor will be able to sell all the shares that the investor desires to sell in any repurchase offer. See the prospectus for more details.

Net Asset Value (NAV) represents the underlying value of BDREX's shares. The NAV of the Fund's shares is the market value of the Fund's assets and is the price at which shares can be purchased. The amount of any distributions the Fund may make is uncertain, and the Fund's organizational documents permit it to pay distributions from any source, including borrowings, sale of assets, and offering proceeds. The Fund's distribution proceeds may exceed its earnings and portions of the distributions that the Fund makes may be a return of the money that shareholders originally invested and represent a return of capital for tax purposes. Distributions are not guaranteed.

Investing in BDREX involves risks, including loss of principal and the other risks set forth in the "Risk Factors" section of the prospectus. Real estate risk factors include, but are not limited to, the fact that direct ownership of real estate is subject to fluctuations in the value of the underlying properties, the impact of economic conditions on real estate values, the strength of specific industries renting properties and defaults by borrowers or tenants. Real estate is a cyclical business, highly sensitive to general and local economic conditions and developments, and characterized by intense competition and periodic overbuilding. Changing interest rates and credit quality requirements may affect the cash flow of real estate companies and their ability to borrow or lend money or to meet capital needs.

A shareholder must have an investment in the Fund on the distribution record date in order to receive the most recent quarter's distribution. The ex-date is the date after which a security is traded without a previously declared distribution. If you purchase a security after the ex-date, you will not receive the next distribution. The Funds NAV will drop on the distribution ex-date to reflect the portfolio's NAV after distribution. The distribution payable date is the day the shareholders of record receive the Fund's quarterly distribution.
